

Icepim 2.3.4 is now live. What are the new features and improvements of the Icepim 2.3.4 version? Below, you can find the full release notes.

The previous Icepim release includes improved exports, logging, and enriching products of brands and categories.

Delta CSV import

Per this release, it is possible to only import changed product data. With such delta imports, you can apply only these changes to your imported catalog. Before this release, all information had to be re-imported every time, even if only a minor change was made. Now you only import the changed product data-sheets, and the rest will remain the same. This makes importing a lot faster.

Apart from the delta and full import options, Icepim has many other import options including using a dedicated API. If you are still using the full-import method via CSV, please request us to optimize the import type to your needs.

Create prefilters using category conversions

If you now go to the category conversions page in Icepim, you can add here a pre-filter.

Therefore, you do not have to go to the “prefilter page” separately to add such a selection filter. Now, this can be set simultaneously with category conversions. This makes it simpler and easier for the user.

In the image below, the prefilter option is shown in the lower right corner with a blue square around it.

Imported category value	Imported label	Category	Action
60141092	Bouwspeelgoed	Toys sub 2	[Edit] [Delete] [Check]
60141097	Educatief speelgoed	Toys sub 2	[Edit] [Delete] [Check]

A search bar at the top right indicates 'Displaying 81 to 92 (of 92 entries)'. In the bottom right corner of the table, a blue square highlights the 'Pre-filter' option.

Restock date

We added a restock date field, which is useful for CSV imports. Thanks to this addition, you can see exactly when a product is back in stock. If the stock is 0 and the product is not available, a back-in-stock-date will automatically be displayed. Now you know exactly when you can re-order the product. It is also possible to use the restock field in a selection filter. For example, you can set a filter for products that are back in stock within two days. In this way, you can make a good overview of when the products are in stock again.

Icepim 2.3.4: Support for Delta Import, Pre-filter, Re-stock Date, and PDFs

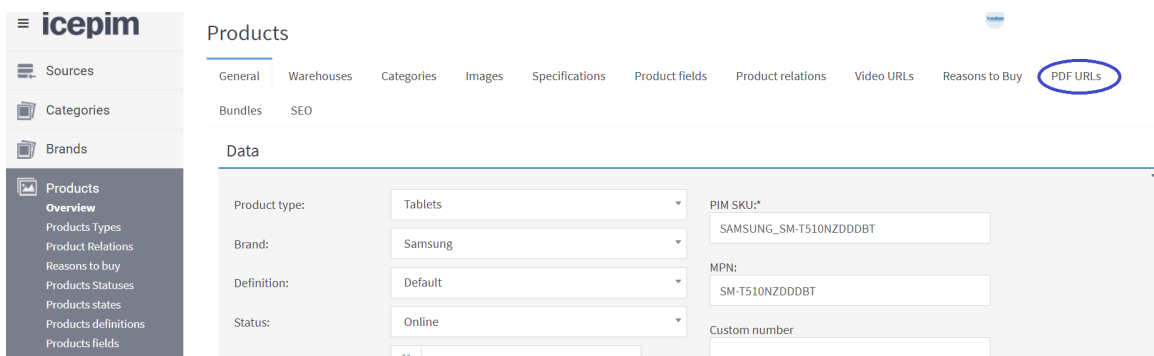

You can see the restock date range option in the filter options. And if the stock level of a product is 0 in the product list below, the restock date is also shown behind the stock level.

PDF files tab on product edit page
